Disclosure policy

1 Objective

Yancoal must, under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act) and the Listing Rules of ASX Limited (ASX) and Hong Kong Stock Exchange (HKEX), keep the market fully informed of information which may have a material effect on the price or value of Yancoal's securities.

Yancoal's policy is to ensure compliance with these requirements by:

- (a) providing a summary of the obligations; and
- (b) establishing a procedure to ensure it meets its disclosure obligations.

As the Company will be listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange with effect from 26 October 2018 and is also a subsidiary of Yanzhou Coal Mining Company Limited (Yanzhou), whose shares of Yanzhou are listed on the Shanghai Stock Exchange, HKEX and New York Stock Exchange, the listing rules of such stock exchanges on continuous disclosure obligations will also be relevant in certain circumstances.

2 Scope

This policy applies to all of Yancoal, including its directors, officers, employees, subcontractors and subsidiaries.

3 Statement

3.1 Continuous Disclosure Rule

Compliance with Listing Rule 3.1 is critical to the integrity and efficiency of the ASX market and other markets that trade in ASX quoted securities and derivatives. Reflecting this, Parliament has given the rule statutory force in section 674 of the Corporations Act.

The effect of this rule is as follows:

Yancoal must immediately notify the ASX of any information Yancoal becomes aware of concerning it that a reasonable person would expect to have a material effect on the price or value of Yancoal's securities.

The information must be given to the ASX (and an acknowledgement that the ASX has released the information to the market must be received) before the information can be given to any other person or released on the Company's website.

3.2 Immediately

"Immediately" does not mean "instantaneously", but rather "promptly and without delay". Although the length of time required to make an announcement will depend on the circumstances, the information must be disclosed to the ASX as quickly as possible in the circumstances and must not be deferred, postponed or put off to a later time. The speed at which a notice is required to be given will depend on factors including:

- where and when the information originated;

- the forewarning (if any) Yancoal had of the information;
- the amount and complexity of the information concerned;
- the need in some cases to verify the accuracy of bona fides of the information;
- the need for an announcement to be carefully drawn so that it is accurate, complete and not misleading;
- the need in some cases to comply with specific legal or Listing Rule requirements; and
- the need in some cases for an announcement to be approved by Yancoal's Board or Disclosure Committee.

3.3 Information Yancoal is “aware of”

Yancoal is deemed to be aware of information which a director or executive officer has, or ought reasonably to have, come into possession of in the course of the performance of his or her duties as a director or executive officer.

An “executive officer” is anyone in Yancoal who is concerned in, or takes part in, management of Yancoal, regardless of his or her actual title or position in Yancoal.

3.4 “Material effect”

Materiality must be assessed having regard to all the relevant background information, including past disclosure that has been made by the Company and other generally available information.

A reasonable person is taken to expect information to have a material effect on the price or value of Yancoal's securities if the information “would, or would be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities in deciding whether to acquire or dispose of” those securities. In this context, the question is whether the investor commonly invests in listed securities and it does not mean that the investor must be a professional, but will be an investor with a degree of sophistication greater than investors with a passing or occasional interests in the activities of securities exchanges.

The information must be of a kind that would, or would be likely, to influence persons who commonly invest in securities, and not merely plays some minor/immaterial role in such decision.

When faced with a decision on whether information is material and needs to be disclosed, it may be helpful for an officer of Yancoal to ask themselves:

- (a) would this information influence my decision to buy or sell securities in Yancoal at their current market price? and
- (b) would I feel exposed to an action for insider trading if I were to buy or sell securities in Yancoal at their current market price, knowing this information had not been disclosed to the market?

If the answer to either question is “yes”, it should be taken as an indication that the information may be market sensitive.

In assessing whether or not information is material and therefore needs to be disclosed, the information needs to be looked at in context, rather than in isolation, against the backdrop of:

- the circumstances affecting the listed company at the time;
- any external information that is publicly available at the time; and
- any previous information the listed entity has provided to the market.

The need to assess information in its context also means that new information may need to be disclosed because its impact on information previously disclosed.

Strategic or reputational matters clearly have the potential to be very significant issues for Yancoal. They can be just as important as (or even more important than) financial and other 'quantifiable' matters.

3.5 Exceptions to the continuous disclosure rule

Disclosure to the market is not required where each of the following conditions is and remains satisfied:

- (a) one or more of the following apply:
- it would be a breach of a law to disclose the information;
 - the information concerns an incomplete proposal or negotiation;
 - the information comprises matters of supposition or is insufficiently definite to warrant disclosure;
 - the information is generated for the internal management purposes of Yancoal; or
 - the information is a trade secret.
- (b) the information is confidential and the ASX has not formed the view that the information has ceased to be confidential; and
- (c) a reasonable person would not expect the information to be disclosed.

In ASX's view, most information that falls within the prescribed categories (section (a) above) and that is confidential (section (b) above) will usually fall within the reasonable person test, that is, a reasonable person would not expect the information to be disclosed.

3.6 Confidentiality

When Yancoal is relying on an exception to the continuous disclosure rule, or is involved in a development that may eventually require reliance on an exception, appropriate confidentiality protocols must be followed. A leak of confidential information will immediately deny Yancoal the ability to keep commercially sensitive information out of the public domain and force Yancoal to announce the commercially sensitive information to the market.

Examples of when information about a matter involving the Company may cease to be confidential include if there is:

- (a) a reasonably specific and reasonably accurate media or analyst report about the matter;
- (b) a reasonably specific and reasonably accurate rumour known to be circulating about the matter; or
- (c) a sudden and significant movement in the market price or traded volumes of Yancoal's securities that cannot be explained by other events or circumstances.

3.7 Incomplete proposals or negotiations

Where Yancoal is in the process of negotiating and/or progressing an incomplete transaction proposal, ASX considers that any such progress or negotiation is incomplete until the Board has resolved to proceed with the transaction, a binding agreement has been entered into by Yancoal or Yancoal has otherwise committed to proceeding with the transaction. Therefore disclosure will not be required until such time as the Board has resolved to proceed with the transaction, a binding agreement has been entered into by Yancoal or Yancoal has otherwise committed to proceeding with the transaction, provided that the information remains confidential. Specifically in this regard, ASX has approved the market practice of parties coming to an agreement while the market is closed and announcing the transaction before the next open (despite the existence of advanced preparation prior to that).

3.8 False market

If the ASX considers that there is or is likely to be a false market in Yancoal's securities and asks Yancoal to give it information to correct or prevent a false market, Yancoal must immediately give the ASX the information it asks for (see paragraph 5.16 for Yancoal's policy in relation to ASX price query letters).

The obligation to give this information arises even if an exception described in paragraph 3.5 would apply but for the ASX's request or even if the information is not of itself material (for example to correct a false rumour that the entity is about to enter into a market sensitive transaction when it is not).

3.9 Trading halts and voluntary suspensions

The Company may request a trading halt to maintain fair, orderly and informed trading in its securities and to manage disclosure issues.

If Yancoal becomes aware of market sensitive information that needs to be disclosed either:

- (1) during trading hours and it is not in a position to issue an announcement "promptly and without delay"; or
- (2) outside of trading hours and it anticipates that it will not be in a position to issue an announcement before trading next commences, it needs to carefully consider whether it is appropriate to request a trading halt (or in exceptional circumstances, a voluntary suspension) to manage its disclosure obligations.

In this scenario, as a matter of general guidance, a trading halt may be necessary in the following circumstances:

- (a) if media comment about Yancoal is sufficiently specific and detailed to warrant a response – until the Company is in a position to release an announcement;
- (b) if Yancoal experiences an unexplained price and/or volume change in its securities;
- (c) if there are indications that there may be a confidentiality leak and it is having a material effect on the market price and/or traded volumes of Yancoal's securities; and
- (d) if the ASX forms a view that a false market exists and asks Yancoal to release information to correct a false market and Yancoal is not able to make a release immediately.

Yancoal should contact its ASX listing advisor if it is unsure about whether it should be requesting a trading halt to cover the time it needs to prepare an announcement.

3.10 Contraventions - Yancoal

Yancoal contravenes its continuous disclosure obligations if it fails to notify the ASX of information required by ASX Listing Rule 3.1.

Either the ASX or ASIC may take action against Yancoal for a suspected contravention.

(a) ASX Listing Rules

If Yancoal contravenes its continuous disclosure obligations under the Listing Rules, the ASX may suspend trading in Yancoal's shares or, in extreme cases, may delist Yancoal from the ASX.

(b) Corporations Act

If Yancoal contravenes its continuous disclosure obligations, it may also be liable under the Corporations Act and may face:

- criminal liability which attracts substantial monetary fines; and
- civil liability for any loss or damage suffered by any person as a result of the failure to disclose relevant information to the ASX.

ASIC has the power to issue infringement notices to Yancoal (see paragraph 6.3(b)).

ASIC can, under the Australian Securities & Investments Commission Act 2001 (Cth), also initiate investigations of suspected breaches by Yancoal.

(c) Class action risk

If Yancoal fails to disclose materially price sensitive information in accordance with Listing Rule 3.1, people who buy or sell Yancoal's securities during the period of the failure (and possibly other affected stakeholders) may bring a class action against Yancoal. Even if they are not successful, class actions can be costly to defend and may have a serious negative effect on Yancoal's reputation and share price. A successful class action may have the potential to threaten the solvency of Yancoal.

3.11 Contraventions - Individuals

If Yancoal's officers (including directors), employees or advisers are involved in any contravention of Yancoal's continuous disclosure obligations, they may also face criminal penalties and civil liability. Substantial penalties or imprisonment, or both, may apply.

The requirements of this policy are the minimum obligations for relevant officers and employees in relation to compliance with Yancoal's continuous disclosure obligations. Depending on the circumstances, officers and employees may have obligations over and above those contained in this policy.

To avoid potential civil or criminal liability, in all situations officers and employees must do everything they reasonably can to ensure that Yancoal complies with its continuous disclosure obligations. In particular, staff must not try to hide or delay 'material news', especially when the information is likely to impact Yancoal's share price.

3.12 HKEX requirementsDisclosure of Inside Information

Similar to the ASX requirements, upon Yancoal's listing on the HKEX, Yancoal must disclose to the public as soon as reasonably practicable any inside information if:

- information has, or ought reasonably to have, come to the knowledge of an 'officer' of the corporation in the course of performing functions as an officer of the corporation; and
- a reasonable person, acting as an 'officer' of the corporation, would consider that the information is inside information in relation to the corporation

As soon as reasonably practicable means that the company should immediately take all steps that are necessary in the circumstances to disclose the information to the public. For example, if the company faces an event that might significantly affect its business and operations, the necessary steps which the company should immediately take prior to the issue of the announcement may include:

- ascertaining sufficient details;
- internal assessment of the matter and its likely impact;
- seeking professional advice where required; and
- verification of the facts.

Officer for this purpose means a director, manager under the immediate authority of the Board and the company secretary of Yancoal.

Information disclosed must not be false or misleading as to a material fact, or false or misleading through the omission of a material fact.

Disclosure must be made in a manner to provide for equal, timely and effective access by the public to the inside information disclosed.

Dissemination by way of publication of the announcement on the HKSE website is deemed compliant with law.

If Yancoal breaches the disclosure requirements and:

- the officer's intentional, reckless or negligent conduct resulted in the breach; or
- the officer has not taken all reasonable measures from time to time to ensure that proper safeguards exist to prevent the breach, then, the individual officer concerned will be liable. Civil sanctions may be imposed including regulatory fines of up to HK$8 million and disqualification of the officer from being involved in the management of a listed company for up to five years.

There are safe harbours from the disclosure requirements and these are as follows:

- where the disclosure would constitute a breach against an order made by a Hong Kong court or any provisions of other Hong Kong statutes
- when the information concerns incomplete proposals or negotiations
- when the information is a trade secret
- when the Hong Kong Government's Exchange Fund or a central bank provides liquidity support to the company; and
- where the Hong Kong Securities and Futures Commission grants a waiver on disclosure prohibited by overseas legislation or restriction orders.

Except for the first safe harbour, all safe harbours are conditional upon the preservation of confidentiality.

In practice, where Yancoal is required to make a disclosure to the ASX pursuant to its continuous disclosure obligations under the ASX Listing Rules, the same disclosure should be made by Yancoal on the HKEX.

Other disclosure obligations

Under HKEX Listing Rule 13.09(1), where the HKEX is of the view that there is likely a false market in Yancoal's shares, Yancoal must, as soon as practicable after consultation with the HKEX, announce the information necessary to avoid a false market in its securities

Trading halt or suspension

HKEX Listing Rule 13.10A imposes an obligation on companies to apply for a trading halt or trading suspension in the following circumstances if an announcement cannot be made promptly:

- the company has inside information or other information which must be disclosed under the HKEX Listing Rules; or

- the company reasonably believes or it is reasonably likely that confidentiality may have been lost in respect of inside information which:
 - is the subject matter of an application to the Hong Kong Securities and Futures Commission for a waiver from compliance with the statutory disclosure obligation; or
 - falls within any of the safe harbour exceptions to the statutory disclosure obligations.

If Yancoal reasonably believes there is inside information which requires disclosure under the HKEX Listing Rules but cannot disclose that information promptly, it will need to apply for trading halt.

3.13 Further training

Relevant officers and employees will receive training that includes:

- familiarisation with Yancoal's continuous disclosure obligations and the penalties that may result from their breach;
- the business costs associated with a 'suspected' continuous disclosure breach, including the risk of ASIC or HKEX investigations and class actions and the reputational damage to Yancoal; and
- an overview of this policy and the officer's or employee's obligations under this policy.

4 Application

4.1 Reporting Disclosable Events

- (a) A standing agenda item at all of Yancoal's Board meetings requires the directors to consider whether any matters at the Board meeting should be disclosed to the market in accordance with the Company's continuous disclosure obligations. Continuous disclosure is also a standing agenda item at Executive Committee meetings for the purpose of monitoring compliance with Yancoal's obligations.
- (b) If at any time management becomes aware of any information that should be considered for release to the market, it must be reported immediately to a member of Yancoal's market disclosure committee, comprising the Chair of the Executive Committee (CEC), CEO, Chief Financial Officer, Company Secretary, General Counsel and the Investor Relations General Manager (Disclosure Committee).
- (c) Corporate Managers (Managers within the Corporate Head Office in Sydney) and General Managers must ensure they have appropriate procedures in place within their areas of responsibility to ensure that all relevant information is reported to them immediately for forwarding to the Disclosure Committee in accordance with this policy.
- (d) All potentially material information must be reported to the Disclosure Committee even where the reporting officer or division is of the view that it will not have a material effect.
- (e) The officer's or division's view on materiality should be shared with the Disclosure Committee but will not be determinative. It is important for management to understand that just because information is reported to the Disclosure Committee that does not mean that it will be disclosed to the ASX and HKEX. It is for the Disclosure Committee to determine whether information is material and requires disclosure.

- (f) The same reporting obligation also arises where a non-executive director becomes aware (in his or her capacity as a director of Yancoal) of information that should be considered for release to the market.

4.2 Continuous disclosure obligations in other jurisdictions and managing these obligations

(a) Obligations in Shanghai, Hong Kong and New York

Yancoal's majority shareholder, Yanzhou, must, in order to comply with its offshore disclosure obligations (subject to certain confidentiality safe harbours), announce matters material or price-sensitive to it to the Shanghai and Hong Kong stock exchanges and in the US.

If material information in relation to Yancoal is to be made public in an ASX and HKEX announcement, it may also need to be announced offshore if it is also material or price-sensitive to Yanzhou. However, due to the larger size of Yanzhou, not all matters which are material to Yancoal will be material to Yanzhou. Failure to comply with ASX Listing Rule 3.1 or the disclosure requirements under the HKEX Listing Rules may also result in Yanzhou breaching its disclosure obligations under the Hong Kong Listing Rules, the Shanghai listing rules and/or the New York listing rules if the information relating to Yancoal is price-sensitive or material information from the perspective of Yanzhou. Yancoal should, in addition to notifying the ASX and HKEX, notify Yanzhou of any such information to enable Yanzhou to assess its disclosure obligations under the applicable listing rules.

In addition, any announcement made to the Shanghai stock exchange must often be viewed by the Shanghai stock exchange before the announcement can be released to the market. As any announcement to be released in Shanghai must be in Chinese, this will add to the time in preparing and releasing an announcement.

In the case of the release of the financial results, if the financial results announcements of Yancoal are to be published before the publication of the consolidated financial results of Yanzhou, Yanzhou has to publish the financial results of Yancoal on the Shanghai, Hong Kong and New York stock exchanges simultaneously.

(b) Failure to comply with continuous disclosure obligations

Failure to disclose information relating to Yancoal which is price sensitive or material from Yanzhou's perspective may result in suspension of trading in Yanzhou's shares on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and/or Shanghai Stock Exchange and/or New York Stock Exchange and other actions that may be taken by the relevant stock exchanges on the directors of Yanzhou.

(c) Approach to dealing with continuous disclosure obligations where timing of event is controllable

Where the timing of an event is controllable, or where the development can be anticipated as being likely to occur, Yancoal should provide a draft announcement to Yanzhou in anticipation of the event, ideally sufficiently in advance for the announcement to be prepared in Chinese and viewed (but not released) by the Shanghai stock exchange before the event occurs. In this case, the announcement must be made in all jurisdictions simultaneously. Ideally, this should occur at a time when the relevant exchanges are open for receipt of announcements and when all markets are closed for trading.

(d) Approach to dealing with continuous disclosure obligations where timing of event not controllable

If the timing of an event is not controllable, there needs to be an immediate announcement to the ASX.

	No guidance on actual or forecast financial performance will be provided to any external party that has not already been provided to the market generally. Yancoal should also be wary of inadvertently giving de facto earning guidance (for example, by expressing views in respect of analysts' forecasts or consensus estimates).
	Any questions or enquiries from the media, equity analysts, fund managers or investors (whether received in writing, verbally or electronically including via the website via investors@yancoal.com.au) should be referred in the first instance to the Investor Relations General Manager.

	(a) Yancoal recognises the importance placed on reports by stockbroking analysts. Any comment by Yancoal to an analyst in relation to an analyst's report or financial projections should be confined to an analyst's factual information and underlying assumptions provided such comment of itself does not involve a breach of Yancoal's continuous disclosure obligation or amount to a selective briefing.
	(b) The CFO will monitor the general range of analysts' forecast earnings relative to Yancoal's own internal forecasts and any financial forecasts previously published by Yancoal. If the Chief Financial Officer becomes aware of a divergence between the 'consensus' of the analysts' forecasts and management's own expectations, which may have a material effect on the price or value of Yancoal's securities, the Chief Financial Officer will refer the matter immediately to the Disclosure Committee for consideration as to whether immediate disclosure to the ASX and the HKEX (or some other action) is required.
	(c) To address market sensitive earnings surprises, Yancoal does not need to release internal budgets or earnings (provided they remain confidential). Instead, Yancoal may need to disclose the fact that its earnings will differ so significantly from market expectations that a reasonable person would expect information about that difference to have a material effect on the price or value of Yancoal's securities.
	(d) As with any other deliberations of the Disclosure Committee, it is important that any consideration given by the Disclosure Committee to any matter referred by the Chief Financial Officer is shared without delay with the Chair or, in his absence, the Chair of the Audit and Risk Management Committee. Where a decision is made to make an announcement about Yancoal's profit outlook, it is of critical importance that Yancoal provides clear guidance to the market regarding Yancoal's view of profit outlook.
Disclosure Committee	(e) During an analyst briefing, if Yancoal is concerned that the analyst's 'forecast' diverges from Yancoal's internal expectations, then there is a risk that even a carefully scripted communication limited to previously disclosed information may be interpreted by the analyst as a 'down grade' and thus amounts to 'selective disclosure'. Accordingly, analyst briefings should not be used to manage analyst's expectations. If necessary (eg consensus analyst forecasts diverge from the Company's expectations) a public ASX release and HKEX announcement must be made.
	5.15 Monitor media and share price movements
	(a) The Investor Relations General Manager (or his or her delegate) will monitor: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li data-bbox="512 1899 1262 1928">(1) media (including social media) reports about Yancoal;

Company Secretary	5.16 ASX/HKEX price query letters (a) The ASX may issue a price query letter if there is a material movement in Yancoal's share price that is not explained by an announcement or by information that is generally observable. The ASX will give Yancoal a short period (often no more than 24 hours) to respond and will publish both the query and Yancoal's response on its public Corporate Announcements Platform. (b) The questions that the ASX may ask in conjunction with a price query can be quite broad. The preparation of a response can be particularly difficult in the period leading up to Yancoal's results announcement because of the heightened possibility that Yancoal may be forced to make an announcement of incomplete information or that is otherwise premature. (c) The HKEX may similarly make enquiries regarding the price and/or the trading volume in Yancoal's shares. (d) In order to be in a position to deal promptly with any price/trading volume query, the Company Secretary should have a system in place which will enable rapid discussion and review of the proposed response. Draft language should also be prepared in advance where a development can be anticipated as being likely to occur. (e) Any response to the ASX and/or HKEX should be mindful of any likely future ASX and/or HKEX queries or announcements so that the response will not appear, with the benefit of hindsight, to have been less than clear and transparent.
