Premier Coal workers get their hands dirty for charity

As part of the annual Rotary Club of Collie's Roadside Clean-Up program, nineteen Premier Coal workers collected rubbish along Coalfields Highway, Premier Road and Centaur Road, Collie on Friday 6 November.

It proved to be dirty work with the team collecting 56 bags of rubbish plus other items including car parts, containers and metal sheeting.

The Rotary Roadside Clean-up program aims to improve the appearance of the roadsides in the community with volunteers picking up litter and large rubbish.

Premier Coal Operations Manager Jim Falconer was proud of his teams' hard work.

"We are always happy to lend a hand for this clean-up program. Our community is very important to all of us and we are more than willing to help pick up rubbish and improve our natural environment.

"The team put in a huge effort cleaning up several kilometres of road that we all drive every day.

"We are proud to donate our time to a program that aims to make a positive difference in the local community and the lives of the people who work and live in the area," said Jim.
